

The Leader - December 1997 Travelling over Neudorf way

The Leader continues its series of looking at people and places on the highways and byways of the province. This week PHIL BARNES writes about the western boundaries of The Leader readership area around Neudorf Road.

Neudorf Road winds through rolling farm country from the Moutere Highway for 12 kilometres toward Dovedale...

Seven kilometres south of Price's Corner Neudorf Rd passes the grandiose bed and breakfast building, The Mudcastle.

Owners Glenys and Kevin Johnston said they deliberately chose the isolated spot.

"I had been working really hard with a restaurant seven days a week in Wellington and it was a conscious move to escape from the cities," said Mrs Johnston.

"Also I originate from Nelson and Kevin is from Motueka so this is half way in between."

They said although the bed and breakfast had been open two years they had kept it low-key as they were still developing the property.
